From the Directors

When we were first approached by OCPA's artistic director, Jeff Tabler, to direct and choreograph the 2009 summer production of Oliver we were particularly drawn to his idea to somehow incorporate a fundraiser for the Maslow Project and homeless children. If you know anything about non-profit arts organizations, especially the ones benefiting children, you know that they are constantly struggling to make ends meet. That being said, we were impressed that this one in particular would reach out and help someone who needed it more.

Once onboard we faced the daunting and almost seemingly impossible task of setting a full length Oliver with a young and inexperienced cast of 24. It was our decision to strip the story down to its essence and create a very simplistic and timeless production – our very own, Oliver...with a Twist. The story starts when a lost, young boy begins his epic journey with 6 brave and magical words... "Please sir, I want some more." Thus Oliver becomes every man, asking the eternal question "Is this all there is?" After a series of what many people would only describe as negative events, Oliver answers this question in Act 2, surrounded by vendors, who ask, "Who will buy my sweet red roses?" ... my milk, my strawberries." Oliver, on the other hand, asks, "Who will buy this wonderful morning? Such a sky you never did see!" "Who will tie it up with a ribbon, and put it in a box for me?"

...reminding us all how easy it is to take for granted the amazing gifts that surround us each and every day. Oliver's undying optimism proves to us that the old saying really is true.... The seeds of depression cannot take root in a grateful heart.

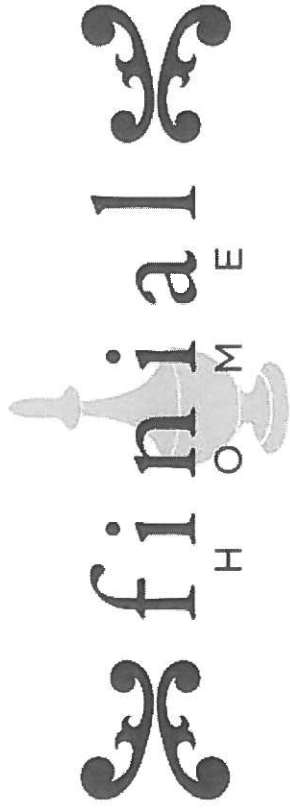

Live, Love.

David and Elyse Roxander
